The Khatling glacier is a lateral glacier, at the source of the river Bhilangana. Sahasratal and Masartal are on the west and east of it respectively. The Valley of Bhilangana affords a panoramic view of snow capped peaks and hanging glaciers. Joining group, Kirtistambha and Meru are sublime and magnificent. The entire trek passes through thick forests and beautiful lush green meadows in the beginning. Later, it crosses 2 passes above 17000 ft. and negotiates glaciers, morains and a snow patch.

Chakravyuh the environmental theatre of the hills is a folk form of garhwali. It is a kind of mass theatre that involves a mind boggling cast of about 100 characters, musicians, directors and back stage workers. It enacts a universally known episode from Mahabharat in which Abhimanyu, the son Arjun was treacherously slain by 7 Kauravs in a circular fortification.

For thousands of years Chakravyuh has been performed in village squares.
